Tradition and Change

As we enter a new decade and leave the sixties behind, the concepts of tradition and change become even more important. Looking around us, we see tradition in the midst of change and innovation affecting accepted institutions. This year's editors have tried to show the importance of tradition and change in our lives by using these concepts as the theme of the 26th volume of the Green Quill.

Old Station

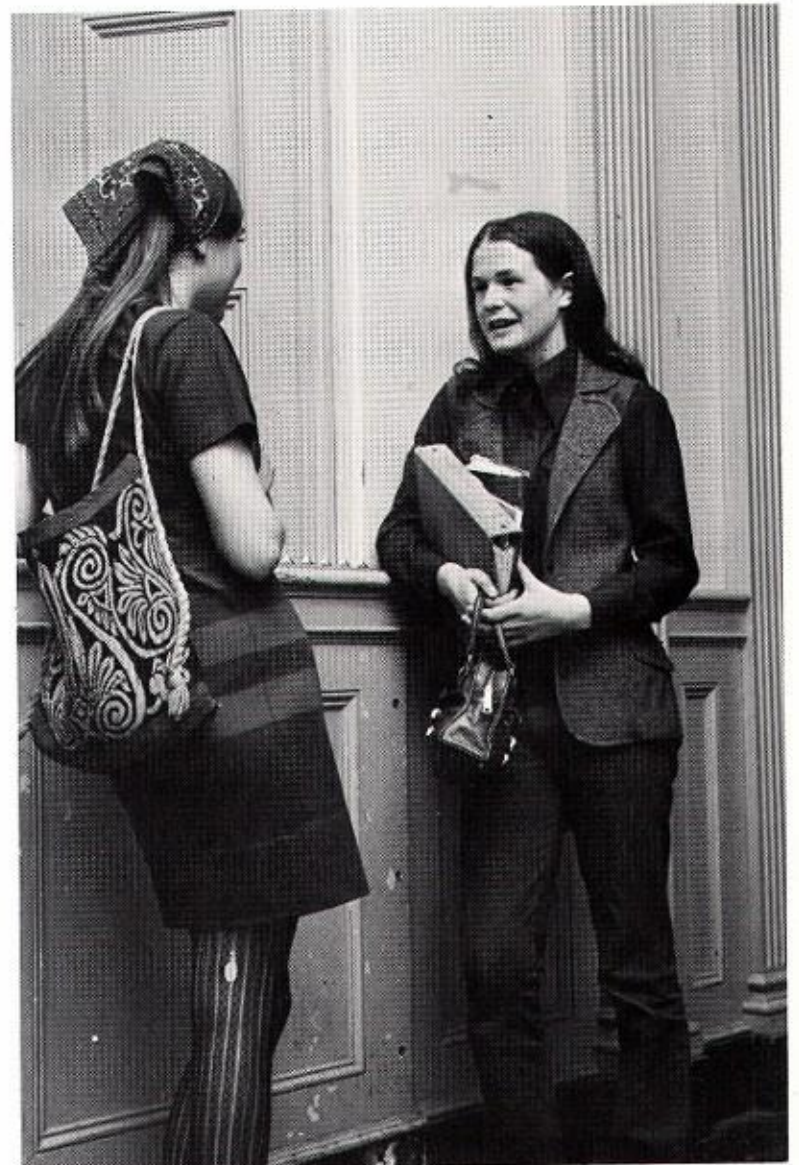

Within the high school itself, change and tradition are powerful forces. While the building remains the same with traditional architecture, methods of teaching and the content of courses vitalize the educational process and force an awareness of life outside the classroom. Although outwardly there seems to be a great number of changes in PHS, such as an eight period day and a more liberal dress code, the basic functions of the school remain the same.

Rome Theater: 1928

The community of Pleasantville is traditionally a commuting town, with the train station the focal point for many of its inhabitants. Styles of trains change; the station gets a little older, a little more worn; commuters retire and are replaced by younger businessmen, but the pattern continues and morning and evening still see a procession of overcoats and briefcases coming and going.

The Green Gazette still starts off the day despite the now brief homeroom period, and students continue to gather for conversation or studying in the auditorium during the shortened lunch hour. Girls now wear slacks as casually as they wear skirts, and boys have almost forgotten the days when long hair was a rarity to be laughed at; but the students themselves, their problems and hopes, despair and happiness, continue to be the soul of PHS. There is no longer an NAC bonfire, but football and basketball and chorus concerts and Seniors' Day and countless other traditions still go on.

We are concerned with each other and the roles we will play once we graduate and leave the safe shelter of high school life. Hopefully, apathy is slowly disappearing and being replaced by sincere interest and a sense of responsibility to more than ourselves and our immediate world. The security of tradition is making way for the uncertain results of change; but change is inevitable, and through it we can hope to find and express ourselves.

Perhaps the biggest change is within the students themselves. It seems that within the past few years there has been growing a new awareness of life, an interest in things outside of our own small world. We still attend school, groan at homework, laugh at our private jokes, care most for the people closest to us; but we are concerned with other matters, too, like the needy in Appalachia and the plight of Biafra. We fought for a new dress code, but we also expressed our feelings about the war in Vietnam by participating in Moratorium demonstrations or wearing American flag armbands.

"When I came to PHS, it was a very, how shall I say it, conservative institution. There were no mod clothes, no long hair, no love beads. At the time I came here, I was rather wild and thought I was really boss. I was the first to have really long hair. Jim Dance had moderately long hair, but I had long hair. I also wore bell bottomed pants and 'Beatle' boots. I had my flower shirts, too!"

—John Capobianco

"One outstanding tradition that is followed at PHS is student apathy. This is a tradition I would like to see disappear. It has been around much too long!"

—Betsy Richardson

"When I first entered PHS, I was all for abiding by the traditions. I wanted PHS to be like a TV high school: happy, fun-loving kids attending happy, fun-loving parties and happy, fun-loving football games. It was not enough for me to be myself. I had to be one of the gang—the good, old gang that I created in my mind because it did not exist in reality."

—Mimi Holloway

"There should be a de-emphasis on learning cut and dry facts but a revival of the humanities. There should be courses where understanding yourself, your fellow men, and the world around you is discussed and, hopefully, understood."

—Michael Bush

"There is a great need for a more diversified student body with a greater mixture of races and ethnic groups. It seems as though we are being too protected from the outside world, and I really believe some of us will be hindered in the future when it becomes necessary to deal with people unlike ourselves."

—Evan Eastman

"I miss the traditional lunch hour when everyone gathers with his friends and hears the latest gossip."

—Chris Jacobson

"'We hold your torch alight' is probably one of the most significant lines in the Alma Mater of PHS. Every time I hear this line, I am touched, as are most students, and yet I am also a bit disappointed. I often wonder if we are not just one more class carrying the torch for 'good old PHS' for just one more year. In many ways that is how things go in our school. Undisturbed tradition is the torch that only now has begun to dim."

—Francine Moroney

"Three cheers for PHS! With the war in Vietnam, starvation in Biafra and Appalachia, and racial bigotry in our midst, we get upset about a dress code."

—Maggie Fraser

"Such a time-honored practice is that of having a chemistry test every Friday, without exception."

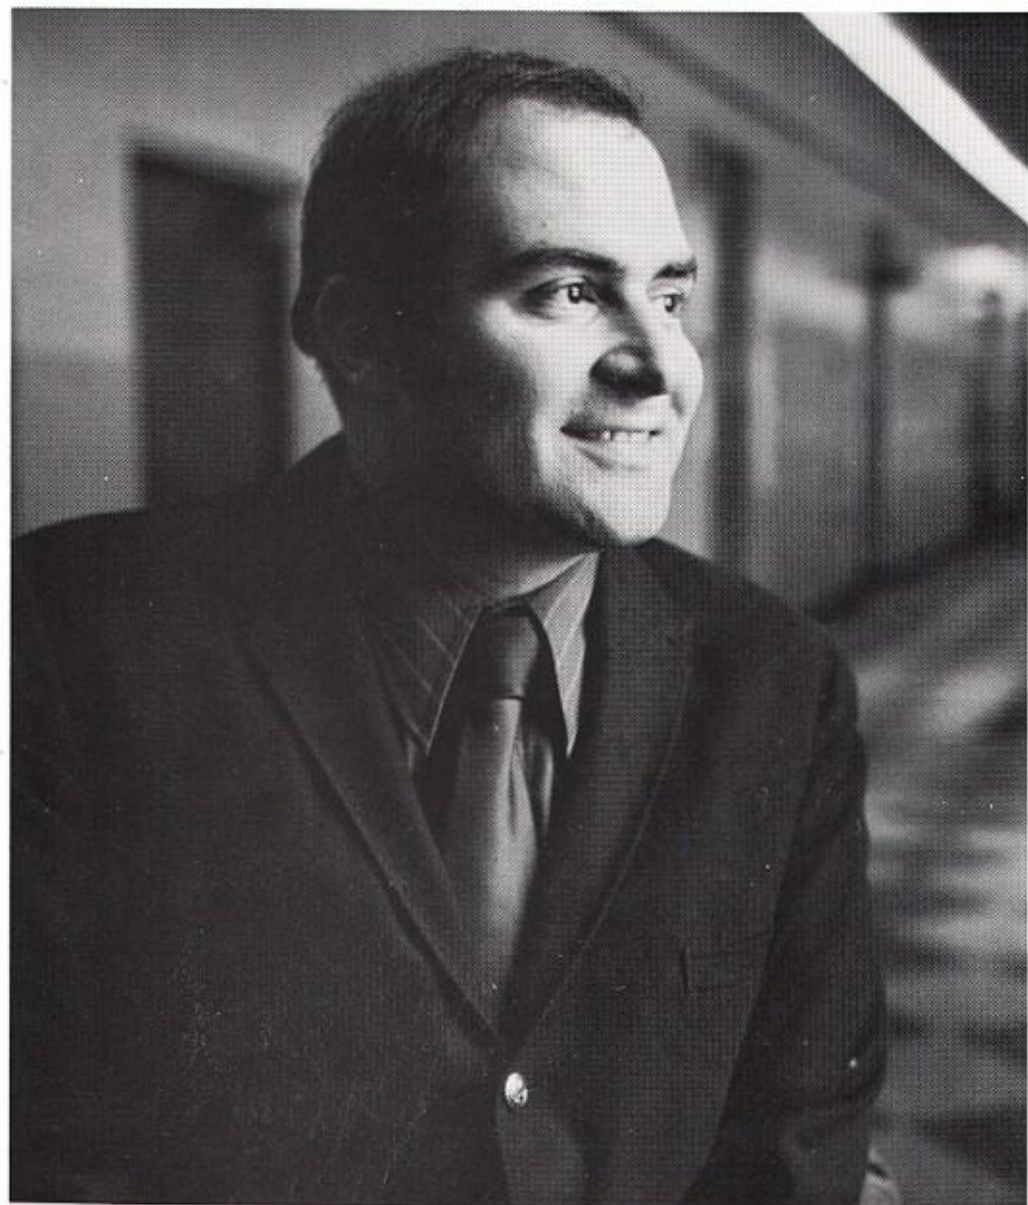

—William Englund

Dedication

We got to know you in the classroom and on the mats—talking, teaching, caring. Never afraid of veering from the prescribed course, you led us in discussions on tangents that were sometimes more interesting and enlightening than any history book. Your sense of humor and friendly concern were a source of security in our high school years.

And so, with respect, admiration, and love, we dedicate our yearbook to you—

In Memoriam

We remember

the woman who showed her love of students and colleagues in her words and expressions the woman who was always ready with a smile to share others' gladness

the woman who so often comforted those with troubles, small or large

the teacher who made clear the difficult and the profound the teacher who inspired so many with love of literature and learning

We remember and are different and better for having known

Priscilla Jussim Henken

No man is an island entire of himself;
every man is a piece of the continent, a part of the main.
If a clod be washed away by the sea,
Europe is the less, as well as if a promontory were, as well as if a manor of his friends or of thine own were:
Any man's death diminishes me, because I am involved in mankind, and therefore never send to know for whom the bell tolls;
it tolls for thee.

CONRAD J. STANTON-CORNELY

We all are confronted at some time or other with the tragedy of automobile accidents. In a span of three or four seconds, irreparable damage can be done to one's car, health, or life. The carelessness of a moment can result in a lifetime of pain.

Conrad Cornely was a 1966 graduate of PHS. While in the Civil Air Patrol he earned the Best Flying Award, but poor eyesight forced his resignation. Studies at Syracuse University followed. He was engaged to be married.

But his fate was that of the auto accident victim. Fatigue, a moment's inattention—these ended his life and his plans. A bright and promising life was extinguished—except in the hearts and memories of those who knew and loved him.

Do teachers play post office?

Yes, it is a long way to Tipperary.

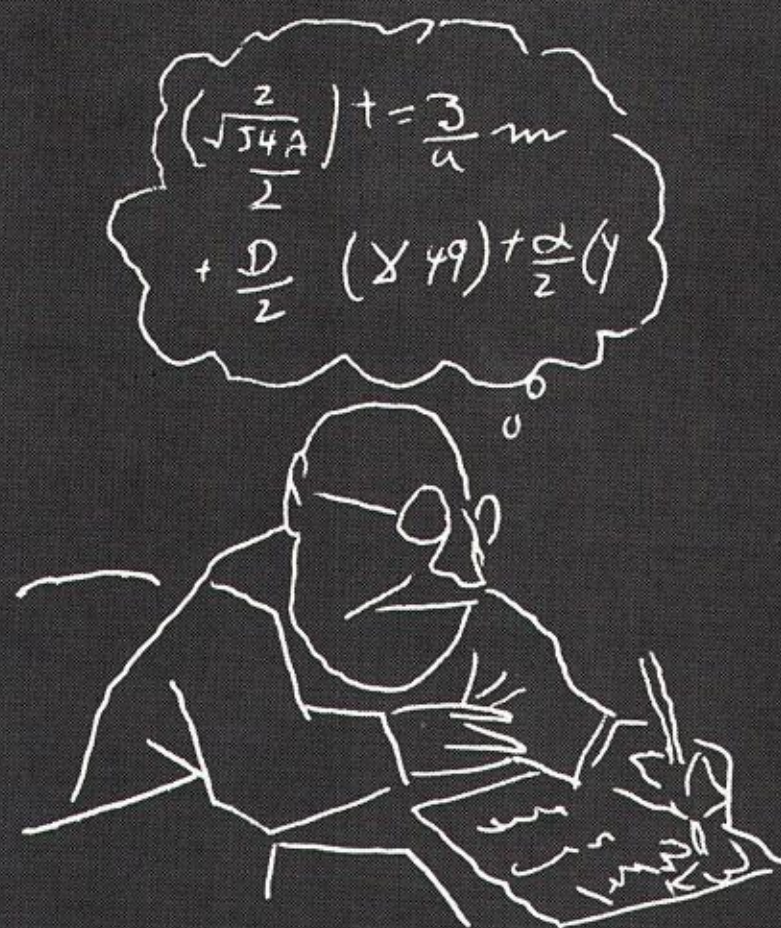

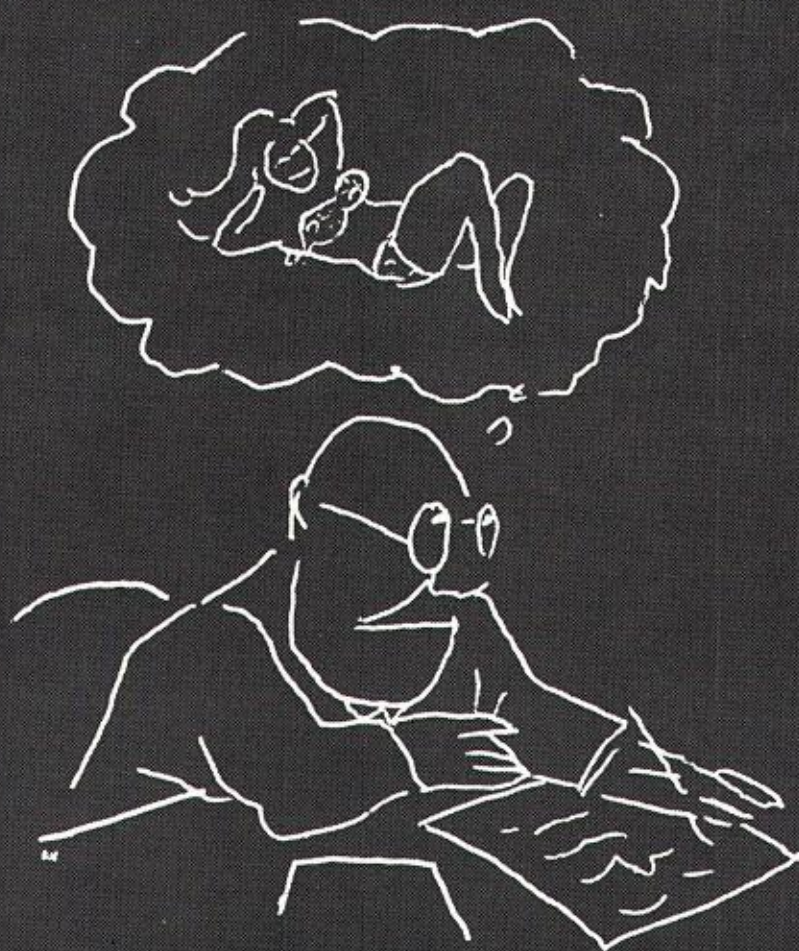

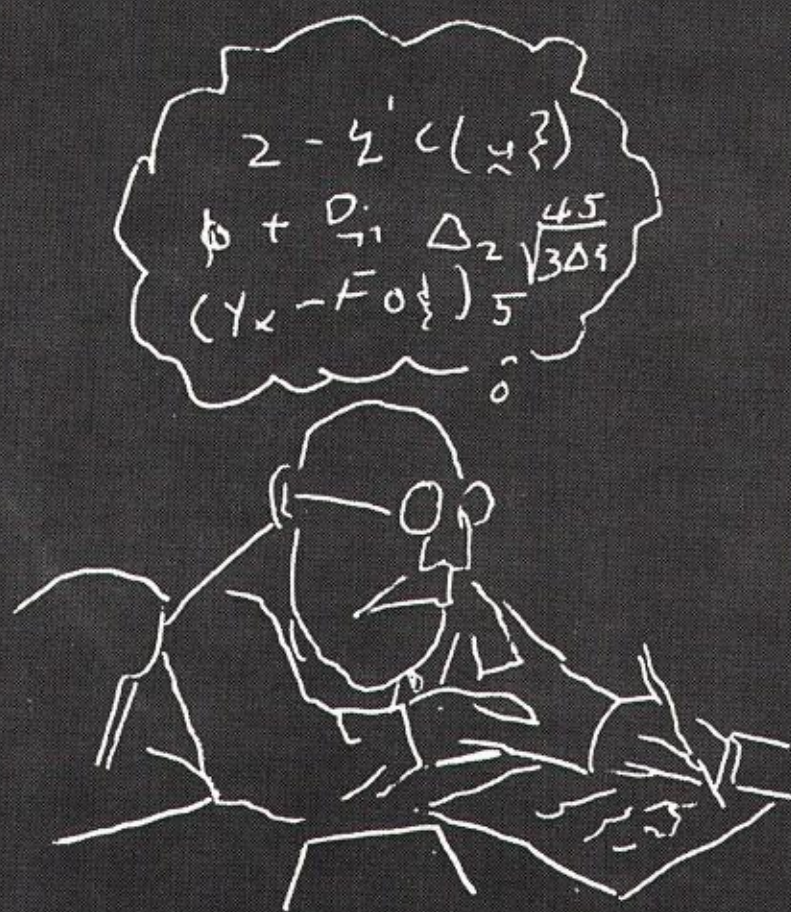

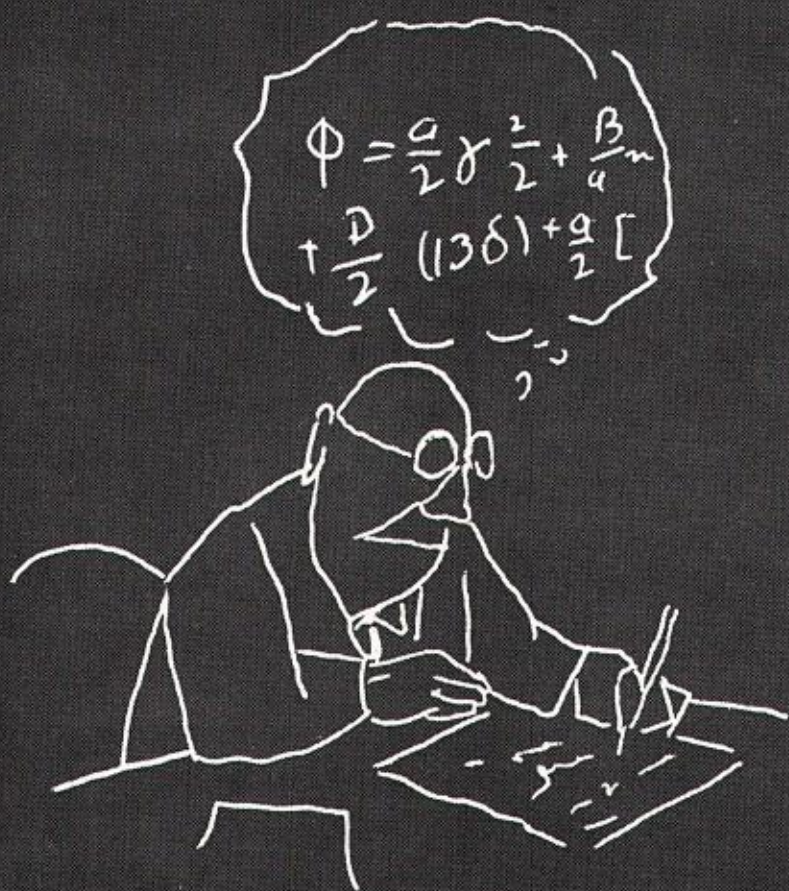

Yeah, I drive a Volkswagon. What about it?

You got that out of The Great Gatsby?

Ah so . . .

FACULTY

Superintendent

DR. HENRY VERSNICK

PHS has altered much under Dr. Versnick, Superintendent of Schools. In addition to the eight period day, these changes include the restructuring of the art, music and physical education courses and the reorganization of the newsletters sent home to parents. Another of Dr. Versnick's accomplishments was the submission of a superintendent's report to the Board of Education. In this report which was partially based on the Middle States Evaluation, Dr. Versnick pointed out the need for improved physical education and science facilities. Also mentioned were the advantages in building a multi-media center for research which would be equipped with slides, films, and other facilities for the collection of data.

Board of Education

The main concern of the Board this year was the bond issue, which provided plans for a new elementary school and for renovation of the high school. The decision for proposing the plan lay in the hands of Mr. Loewenwarter (Pres.), Mr. Faber (Vice Pres.), and the other members.

Sitting: Mr. Paul Loewenwarter, Mrs. Felice Friese, Mr. Ben Lane; Standing: Mr. Robert Allen, Mr. Harold Faber.

Principal

RONALD McCREARY

Mr. Mac was actively involved in many changes that took place this year in PHS, both physical and organizational. Fire doors, an altered time schedule, plans for improving the school with new programs and facilities—all of these required his attention and concern. But through it all, one thing did not change: his dedication to the best interests of Pleasantville High School students.

Assistant Principal

CHARLES WRIGHT

As Assistant Principal, Mr. Wright retained most of his old responsibilities such as attending all home and away events and, of course, handling all disciplinary problems. This year also found him taking care of fire and air raid drills, having full control of the attendance registers and handling all schedule changes. He hopes the last burden will be lessened next year when the scheduling will be done by computer. This year, because his duties are so onerous, he is not teaching—much to his regret.

No school year commences without changes—some noticeable, some almost imperceptible. No generation of students graduates without leaving its mark on the institution. Athletic teams bring honors; students with high achievement win awards for themselves and make their classmates, friends, and family proud. Certain teachers have devoted their lives to the tradition of PHS. Others have died in tenure. Familiar figures retire; younger teachers assume their duties. The institution has been enriched by all of them.

Perhaps the most noticeable changes were physical. A familiar classroom changed its function for greater flexibility. The art room was moved to new quarters. Typing was moved to a more sound-proof room. Fire doors were installed.

The present year was a year of decision. The proposition to be placed before the citizens will have determined, if approved, whether the school buildings and the curriculum will keep pace with the changing social order. While PHS has not lagged educationally, modernized facilities will certainly be conducive to greater progress, provided the program and the facilities are matched. Given improved facilities, faculty and administration will be inspired to expand and revitalize the curriculum in order to tune in with the present. It was increasingly apparent that many young people were seriously appraising the present curriculum. Several teachers were intrigued by the possibilities in individualized courses as new resources for research became available. With more space and the modern, sophisticated equipment available, students would be encouraged to pursue knowledge in greater depth than heretofore possible. With a multi-media center containing tapes and microfilm, in carrels equipped electronically, a student with advice from a cooperating teacher might find the inspiration for knowledge our young people say they are seeking.

There are those among us who resist change and find it disturbing. Thoughtful people will remember that change is like time and tide. Change is inexorable. PHS belongs to the group whose philosophy might be expressed: "Be not the first by which the new is tried, nor yet the last to lay the old aside." May the seventies be a decade of progress for all who are and have been associated with Pleasantville High School.

Farewell

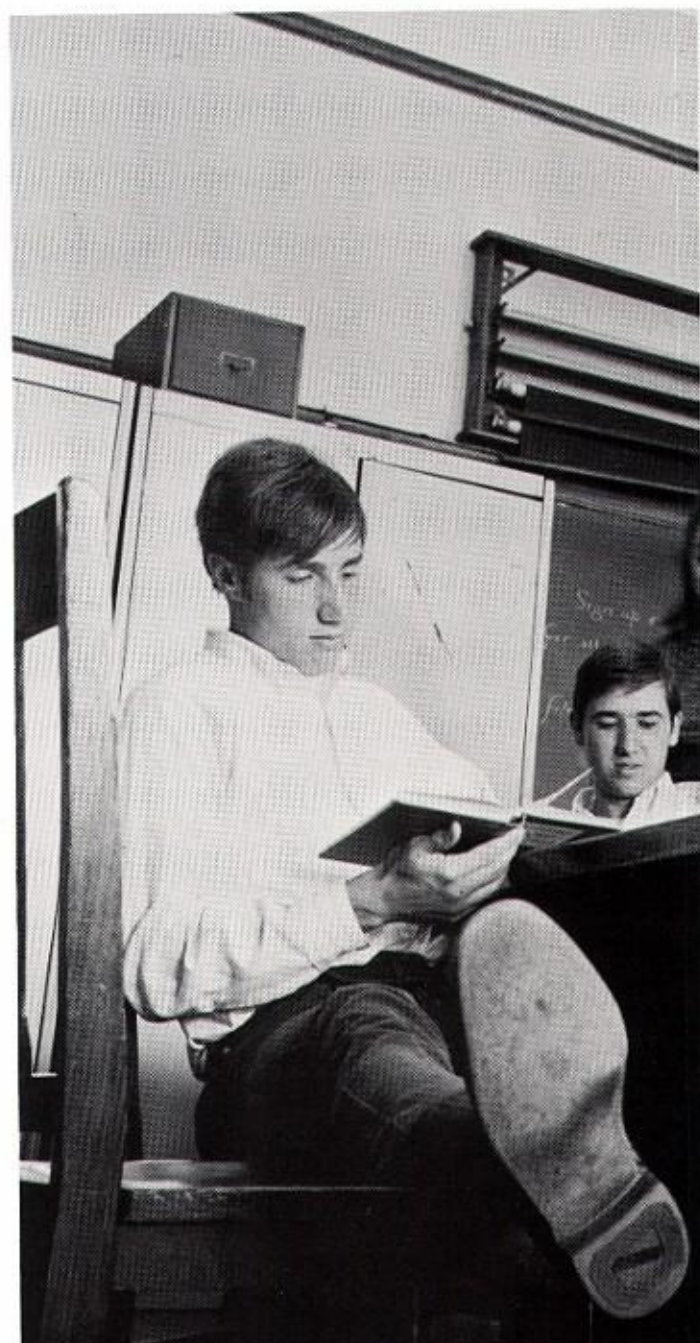

Dorothy Marotta

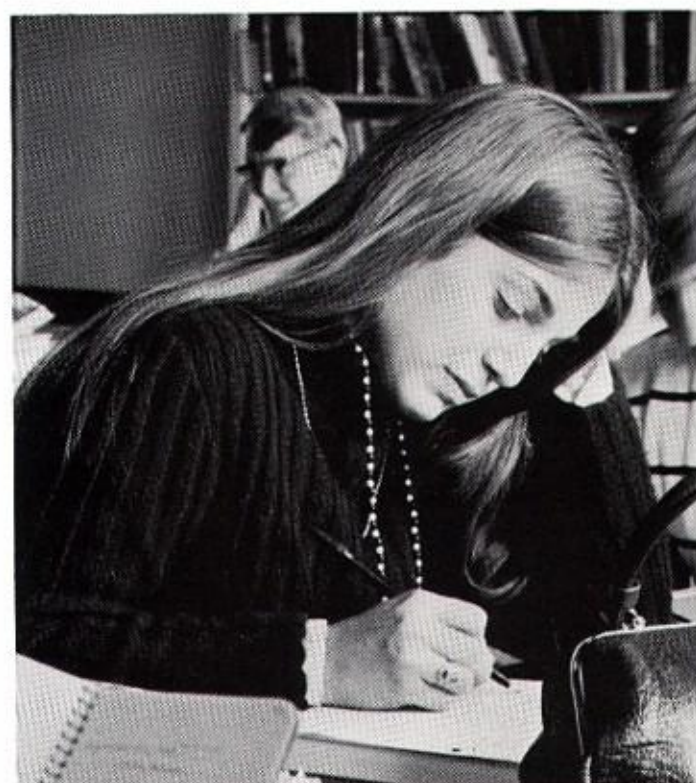

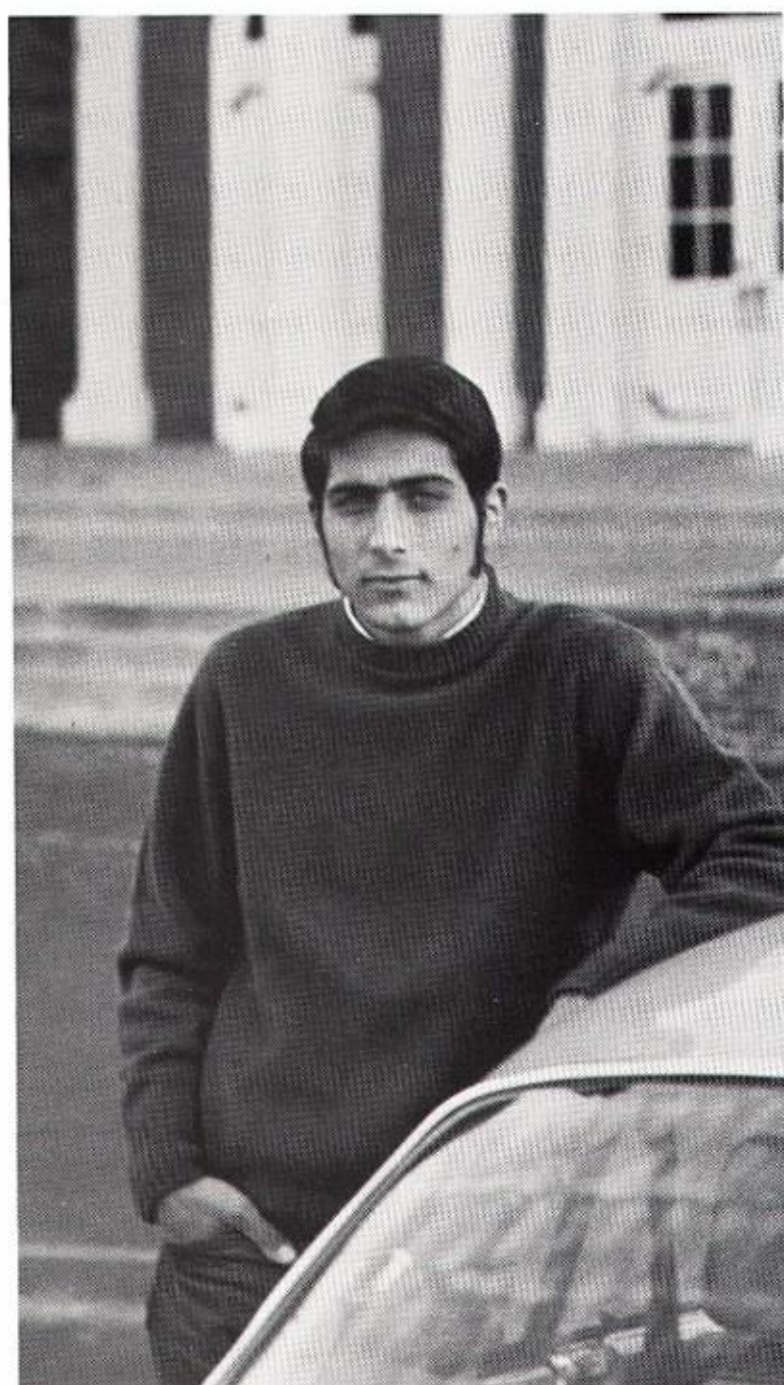

From 1942 until her retirement last year, Mrs. Marotta taught Home Economics in Pleasantville High School. She was active in organizing a Home Economics Club and a Handicrafts Club and helped to place girls in B.A. Altman's annual charm course and fashion show. But more important than this enthusiastic participation in school activities was her friendship with students. Many graduates continue to think of her fondly, remembering the sincerity and depth of her interest in them.

"Mr. Mac, that really was funny!"

Sometimes he puts it in his mouth.

Mother Tradition

Tradition is an old woman;
Starched, laced, and powdered.
In a high backed overstuffed chair she sits primly
In a dark room
Perusing her yellowed lists.
She has two sons:
One is a sudden chap, given to Explosive entries; the other
Comes sneaking in so quietly
One might not even know
He had arrived.

Change

What wind blows ever the same way?
What rock stands always firm?
What varies not from day to day?
What has no fixed term?

The winds of Change always bring rain;
The untouched rock is Loss—
And every day has some new pain
For each tradition lost.

Juniors

M. Fraser, H. Racioppo, R. Gallo, C. Bohlander

This year the Junior Class was fortunate enough to have Mrs. Speare as their adviser. The class officers, Maggie Fraser, president; Heidi Racioppo, vice president; Chris Bohlander, secretary; and Ron Gallo, treasurer, contributed to the successful year enjoyed by the class of '71. A major effort of which the class was proud was the Junior Prom, the result of much careful preparation by the Junior Class.

One of the most noticeable changes in PHS this year was a new group of faces and ideas. The Freshman Class was led by Chris Hallager, president; Patty Burke, vice president; Doris Guiliano, secretary; and Diane Bianchini, treasurer. Assisted by their class adviser, Mr. Nettleton, they made a fine contribution to the banner competition. Under their able leaders, the class held a successful and memorable Freshman Dance.

Varsity Football 1969 Season

This year's Panthers were a fine hard-hitting football team. Each team member worked hard to give the team a 6-2 record. The Panthers had a fine offense in full-back Steve Devine and quarterback Rick Hall. Steve gained 907 yards and was the County's leading scorer with 108 points. Rick was an All-League performer completing 61 per cent of his passes. Pat Golan was an All-League and All-County performer bowling over opposing players all year. Other outstanding players were Rich Fildes, Joe Sager, and Ron Gallo, each an honorable mention All-League performer.

This year's J.V. had an outstanding season and part of this was the result of the coaching of Mr. Young and Mr. Rote.

The runners got off to a slow start this year because of injuries and illness early in the season. However, as the season progressed, the team, under the leadership of Coach Robert Geddes and Captains Ernie Kelley and Paul Glynn, improved. There were no outstanding performers, but many of the victories were won by bunching the best runners within a short period of time of each other. At the end of the season, the team captured surprise 2nd place in the W.I.C.C. League Championship and Section I Championship. They also placed Peter McCormick as an alternate on the Section I team that went to the State Championship meet.

Those boys who did not go out for sports were also welcome. The club's membership shifted with the sport seasons, but always was full enough to prove worthwhile for those involved.

Winter Track

The Winter Track team, coached by Robert Geddes, completed its third season of competition by going undefeated in dual meets. Outstanding performers included the school record breaking 880 yard relay team of Don Giampa, Dan Golan, Ken Winchester; Peter Coogan and co-captain Ernie Kelley in the two mile, and co-captain Ken Winchester in the triple jump.

Joe Troy's Varsity Panthers got off to one of the hottest starts in Pleasantville basketball history with a 7-1 record after the first eight games. High points in early season play included winning the Somers Invitational Holiday Tournament and the naming of Doug Hall and Gary Guida to the All-Tourney team. The second half of the season was highlighted by a bid to the Section I Tournament; unfortunately, the once potent offense ran amuck and Panthers were eliminated early in tourney competition.

Golf

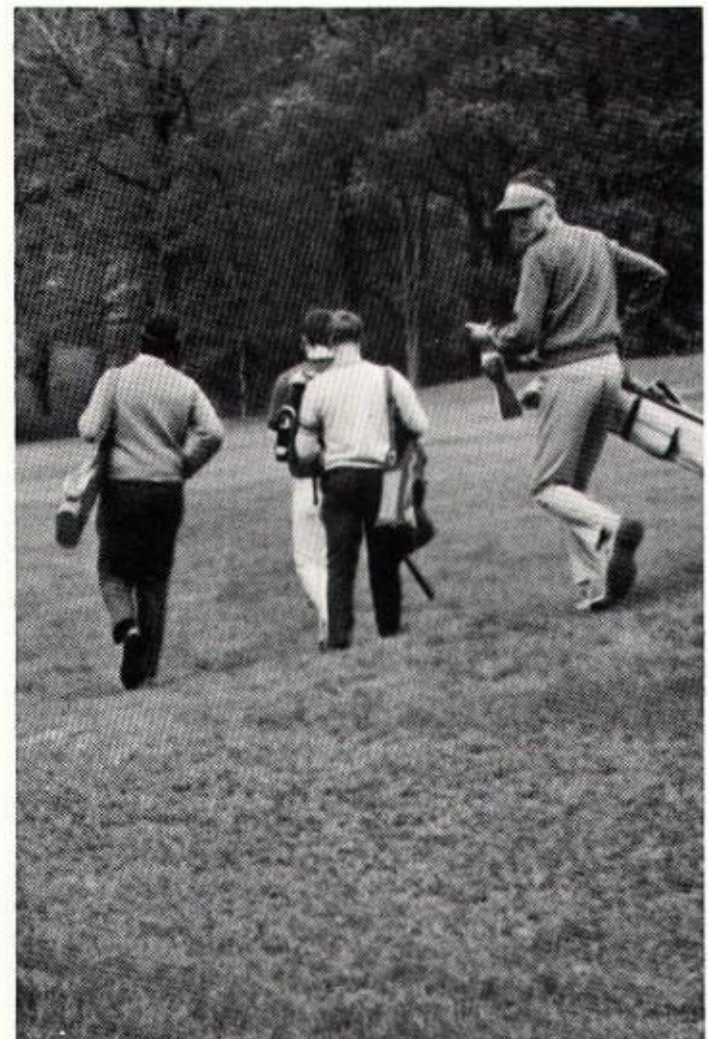

And now begins the hunt . . .

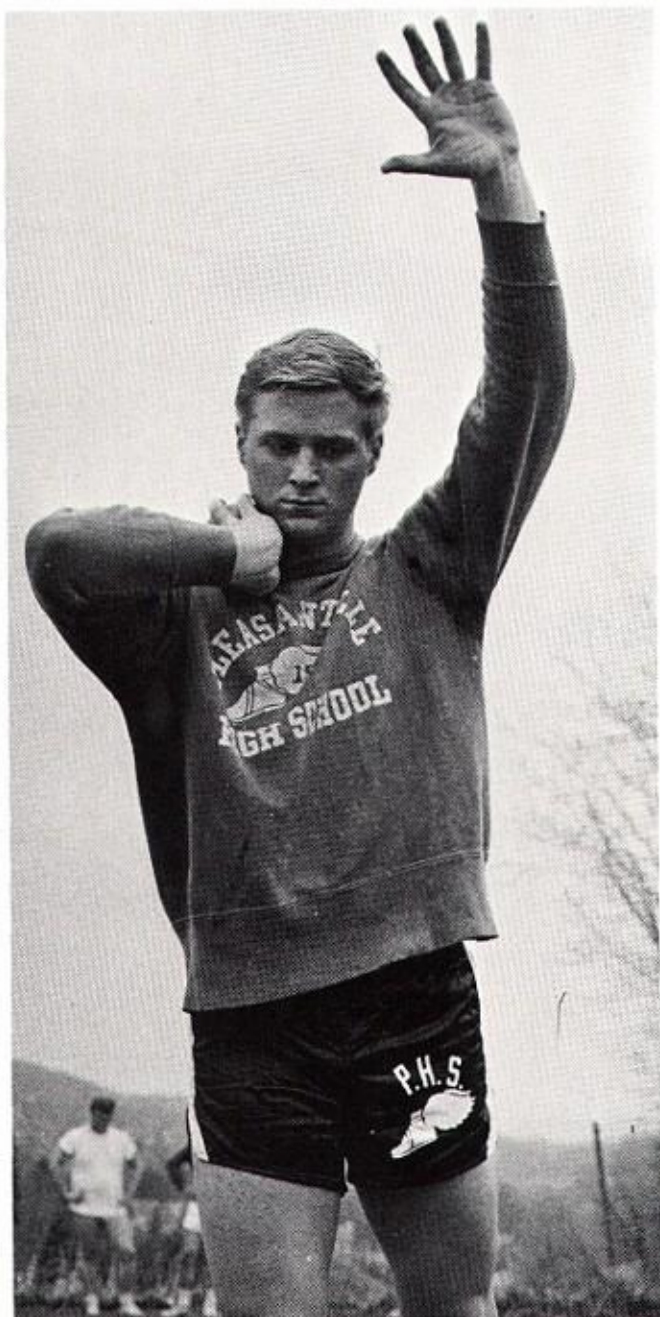

Tee for two

The 1970 Varsity Golf team showed much improvement over the 1969 squad which posted a 1-8 season. The team was again led by Captain Carl Nathe, the lone senior on the team. Junior newcomer Bill Boyd's fine play was a boost to the squad as was the development of sophomores Don Mahncke, Harry Borg, and Pete LaMonica. Since all these players, with the exception of Nathe, will return next year, Mr. Naz, veteran coach, had high hopes for the future.

"A-golfing we will go . . ."

Spring Track

A study in concentration

In one of its best seasons in many years, the Panther Track Team, coached by Robert Geddes, compiled an outstanding dual meet record, as well as placing the team in the League and Section I championships. Although handicapped by the fact that the underclassmen greatly outnumbered the more experienced juniors and seniors, all classes contributed points in each meet. The leading point gainers in various events included Ken Winchester in the triple jump and hurdles, Ernie Kelley in the high jump and two mile run, and Pete Coogan in the sprints. The 880 yard relay was also a strong deciding factor in many Panther victories. One of the season's highlights was the formation of a separate team, Barney's Beanery A.C., to compete in A.A.V. and Metropolitan competition where Coogan, Winchester, Calamai, Alzamora, and Welker did well in the Metropolitan 15 kilometer run in March.

Alden, J. Roberts, J. Foca, B. Weltzien, C. Bloch, R. Calandro, L. Corrado, B. Stengel.

The 1969-70 Pleasantville wrestlers started their third season by winning the first six matches. They went on to three more victories in the remaining matches for a season's record of 9 wins, 3 losses, and a second place finish in their league. This was the best finish in the history of wrestling at PHS. Three members of the squad were named to the All-League team because of their undefeated dual meet records in the league. They were Matthew Rose at 109 pounds and co-captains Frank Vita and Jim Trimble at 145 and 218, respectively. Trimble also placed first in the Section I championships in his weight class. It was not individual performances, however, that created such a successful season, but the tremendous team effort. This resulted from the inspiring work and leadership of Coach Scappaticci.

Another first for Pleasantville wrestling was the introduction of a Junior Varsity team under the direction of Coach Young. Their performance this year gave PHS great hopes for wrestling success in the future.

Varsity Baseball

This year's Varsity Baseball team fared rather well under the experienced leadership of coach Charles Beattie. It was not an experienced squad, having only three returning starters: Joe D'Allura, Bob Mittelstadt and Captain Rick Hall. The strengths of this year's team were excellent fielding and clutch hitting.

Teacher, Teacher

The 24th annual Students' Day occurred on February 12th. The day was highlighted by the comments of Dr. David Poling, the guest speaker, at the traditional assembly. Dr. Poling's speech concerned the physical and moral pollution of our society and its relevance to the students of PHS. During the day the student teachers demonstrated their talents and abilities through the imaginative and stimulating lessons they prepared. The day was a credit to the Student Council and Miss Haack.

GO was formed as a service club to handle the financial aspect of the other clubs in the school. It raised the money needed for financing projects by selling GO cards, running concessions at football and basketball games, and by sponsoring dances. One project the GO was involved in was repairing the stage lightboard. Friday morning meetings, assisted by Mr. Massello (adviser), consisted of work in committees and a review of club budgets.

The Noon Athletic Commission revealed a dual purpose in its year's activities. One aim, as indicated in its title, was to provide noon time recreation. This was accomplished through its Volleyball Tournament, Foul-shooting Contest, noon pep rallies and Hole-in-One competition. It also kindled student enthusiasm and support through its evening pep rally at which a guillotine replaced the traditional NAC sponsored bonfire. The bonfire was discontinued because of village pollution regulations. Under the direction of their adviser, Mr. Caie, the NAC also sold Pleasantville T-shirts.

The PHP, a student service organization, assisted, under Mr. Solin's guidance, in controlling crowds at basketball games, plays, concerts, and other school activities. Members of the PHP were on duty at lunch time in the cafeteria and the gym for the purpose of maintaining order. In addition to these functions, PHP members were authorized to serve a summons to any student who was violating school rules. A student who was given a summons was then tried by Student Court. In former years PHP members were juniors and seniors, but this year there was a preponderance of freshman and sophomores.

A stable tradition of PHS, the monitor organization has doubled in size since its introduction to the school. Green Quill

With the theme of Tradition and Change as a guideline, the Green Quill staff, headed by Elissa Henken as editor-in-chief and Mrs. Koshar as adviser, provided the students of PHS with a record of the 1969-1970 school year. Aspiring to the success of last year's yearbook, which won first place in the Columbia Scholastic Press Yearbook contest, staff members combined their best efforts to turn out an even finer volume.

This year's Neperhan staff underwent a multitude of changes while the paper itself was greatly modified. In addition to the usual sports coverage and school activity articles, the Neperhan covered and probed into outside events: the Vietnam war and Moratorium activities, the AFS benefit with Pete Seeger entertaining, and even some of the town meetings, such as the school board's. The school newspaper definitely had a new look.

Pierian

With Mr. Wittern's guidance, the editors were able to collect and organize creative contributions to the magazine from all four classes. For the first time in the Pierian's existence, the staff managed to publish two issues, one for fall and winter and the other for spring and summer of this year. The introduction of a photography section heightened the magazine's interest.

Waxpaper

Co-Editors: Robin Bossert, Peter McCormick and Will Englund. Adviser: Mr. Lund

After two years in the school, Waxpaper's influence grew. Increased circulation was the result of many new innovations. Photographs were introduced to supplement articles dealing with outside activities of students such as Woodstock and the Washington Peace March. New and often humorous features appeared: games, mazes and songs. The staff organized Vietnam Moratorium activities.

Originated last spring by Kathy Machan, who served as chairman, the Writers' Club sought to encourage those interested in creative writing and to give them an opportunity to obtain constructive criticism of their work. As the main adviser, Mr. Wittern attended all of the meetings and enriched the club's discussions with his experience and knowledge of writing. Mr. Massello and Mrs. Antippas sometimes sat in on meetings and willingly gave comments and suggestions. Hopefully, the club is an additional change in PHS that will become a valuable tradition.

Junior Classical League

Organized when the Latin classes were formed, the Junior Classical League worked to show the importance of Greek and Latin culture in today's world. This year, aided by adviser Mrs. Lomont, the club again participated in the Save the Children Federation clothing drive; celebrated the birthday of Virgil; and, with a special presentation by the Drama Department, commemorated the Ides of March. The goal of the American Field Service was to expand international relationships of students, and to bring Pleasantville High School closer to the world. Important to the attainment of this goal was the presence of Chris Tsikkinis, this year's AFS student from Cyprus. All interested students were welcome to join. One important and successful event sponsored by this group was the Pete Seeger Concert on January 11, 1970. Members also benefited from Beryl Rose's slides of Israel, which she visited as part of a group. The slides contained views of Haifa, Jerusalem and the hills of Galilee. With Miss Haack as faculty adviser, the group successfully organized the annual AFS weekend, which raised funds to support the school's overseas foster child.

Pete Seeger

Chris Tsikkinis, Pleasantville's AFS student from Timasol, Cyprus, added much to the school year 1969-1970. Soft-spoken, intelligent and a year younger than his fellow students, he had little trouble with the language, having been brought up in England before returning to his home in Cyprus. He enjoyed football games and participated in intramurals. In classes he shared with PHS students and faculty his knowledge of long, difficult Greek words. The tradition of the AFS program has this year, through Chris, made for many memorable moments in promoting international understanding.

Future Teachers of America

E. Henken, J. Povall, S. Thorington, S. Walsh, C. Christensen, E. Osterhoudt, K. Kehe, K. White, K. Brooks, C. Jacobson, Mrs. Ellsworth.

As implied in its title, the Future Teachers Club attempted to familiarize students interested in this field with a broader, deeper understanding of the teaching profession. An important function of this group was the direction of Teachers Recognition Day, when the PHS faculty was presented with flowers and a luncheon. Their program this year also included a theater trip to New York City, guest speakers, and aid to parents who visited on Election Day.

Each week a schedule of TV programs was distributed to the teachers of PHS. The purpose of this bulletin was to enrich the curriculum and offer enjoyment mingled with education. More than ten years ago this practice began as announcements in the "Green Gazette" and gradually developed into its present form. This year TV tips was under the direction of Laurie Drake and Marjorie Faber with Mrs. Lomont acting as adviser.

Tri-Hi-Y

The four chapters of Tri-Hi-Y aspired to the same goals: service and enjoyment. Each club helped in its own way, whether it was organizing parties at the Abbott House or arranging Saturday afternoon picnics at the Ferris Avenue Center. Ice skating parties, swimming at the Y.M.C.A., trips to N.Y.C. and exchanging Christmas gifts were a few of the things the girls did for enjoyment this year. The faculty advisers were Mrs. Wright (Amicus), Miss Grana (Hi-Hopes), Mrs. Speare (Iota), and Mrs. Hogue (Opus).

National Honor Society

Nineteen students were invited to join NHS this year, seven seniors and twelve juniors. The method of induction was slightly revised. Eligibility requirements still included an eighty-five per cent or better average for three years for seniors and a ninety per cent or better two year average for juniors, but less emphasis was put on grades and more on the recommendation of five teachers whom the candidates themselves chose.

In her second year as adviser, Mrs. Lomont steered the club through such projects as delivering Christmas cards posted with NHS stamps just before the holiday vacation, holding a get-together with food and discussion at a private home in order that the members might become better acquainted, and acting as guides for visitors to the school on Election Day. President Elissa Henken, Vice-President Alice Faber, and Secretary-treasurer Sally King served as officers to the club. As tutoring Chairman, Peter Hoose set up tutoring schedules for members who had any free time to help out underclassmen who needed encouragement in their studies.

National Merit

Semi-finalists: Andrew Alden, Alice Faber.

The National Merit Examination is taken by students in their junior year. In September of their senior year, participating students are given the results. This year fifteen PHS students received a Letter of Commendation, with Andy Alden and Alice Faber earning Merit semi-finalist titles.

Those scoring in the top 7% are awarded Letters of Commendation, and Semi-Finalist and Finalist recognition.

NCTE Award

Katharyn Machan

Katharyn Anne Machan, '70, has honored PHS by winning the Achievement Award of the National Council of English Teachers. She has been cited as one of the outstanding high school students of English in the country. Nominated last spring, she submitted samples of her best writing, completed two standardized tests on general English knowledge and wrote a one hour impromptu essay. A Scroll of Recognition was presented to Kathy in a convocation. She was also given recognition by the Board of Education recently.

The Junior Chorus is the beginning and base of the choruses to come in later years. Under Mr. Vellutino's instruction, the freshmen appeared in both the Christmas and spring concerts. Among the songs presented were "Hark the Herald," "Over the Rainbow," and "Hava Nagila."

This chorus met twice a week with Mr. Vellutino. Despite its title several female voices were included in the tenor section. In his desire for perfection, Mr. Vellutino trained the chorus enthusiastically, avoiding carefully the sound of "amateur night in Dixie." Despite the limited time for rehearsal, the Men's Chorus performed beautifully at the Christmas Concert and the annual Spring Concert.

Senior Girls' Chorus

The Senior Chorus was directed this year for the second time by Renato Vellutino. These performances included singing Christmas arrangements at the Sherman Park Inn for the Rotary Club, the Middle School and the High School. In addition to the Spring Concert, a special Christmas performance given for the general public was an innovation this year. The chorus offered an unusual Ray Charles arrangement of "Jingle Bells." Especially challenging to the group was an unaccompanied offering of "The Angels and the Shepherds" which, because of the effort involved, became the favorite of the group.

Under the new leadership of Mr. Vellutino, the band marched off to Panther football games last fall. Drum major Steve Caris directed one stunning half-time performance after another, equaled only by those spirited Friday pep rallies. The season over, the band prepared for the Christmas concert, in which it participated for the first time this year. Then, through the long, dark winter nary a sound was heard. Finally, on April 3rd, it burst forth from its cocoon to give its 57th Annual Concert. The oldest high school band in New York State had done it again.

The Organ Club adviser was Dr. Wasson. Through this organization, interested organ students furthered their knowledge and ability in that field. This was accomplished through various trips on which members were instructed in the use of different sizes and types of organs. This year organs seen and played by the club were situated at Yale University and elsewhere in Connecticut. Playing for convocations and at noon hour were services which this club's members performed for PHS students.

Advised by Mr. Peper, the Folk Guitar Club continued to enrich its members and the student body with the sound of folk melodies. Its main goal was to cultivate an appreciation of folk music; therefore, anyone with an interest in playing or singing was welcome to join. Projects during the year included a benefit show at the high school and several trips to concerts, including one to see and hear Judy Collins at Carnegie Hall.

Stage Crew

This year Stage Crew's members confidently handled lighting and sets for the school play. The crew provided sound for all the assemblies including those in which the superintendent spoke to the students about the gravity of bomb scares. Concerts by the school band, the chorus and Pete Seeger all utilized the technical skills of Stage Crew.

In charge of the operation of audio-visual aids is the Projection Crew. This year, Mr. Appelsies, a new teacher at Pleasantville High School, advised these projectionists with the help of Neal Johnson who headed the group. The crew members have helped not only teachers baffled by the operation of projectors and tape recorders, but they have also assisted at assemblies and whenever their skills were needed.

"This is serious. You ought to take her to Mrs. Augenblick."

November brought the performance by PHS actors and actresses of The Spiral Staircase, a short murder-mystery by Mel Dinelli. When asked to recount his most vivid personal memories of the work behind the performance, one of the stars replied, "Wild times . . . 'Learn those lines!' . . . long practices . . . 'Learn those lines!' . . . hot lights . . . 'Learn those lines!' . . . make-up . . . audiences . . . applause." Whether or not these memories are foremost in the minds of the other participants, certainly all felt a sense of accomplishment when the final curtain went down.

"Lately I've had the feeling that I'm being watched."

"Move, John.
You're upstaging me!"

The Spiral Staircase and "Well of the World" were performed by Pleasantville High School's Thespian Society. Their diversified talents ranged from acting on stage to behind-the-scenes make-up artistry. Mrs. Antippas directed these aspiring actors.

Silver Virginitv

The moon.

Tall, pointed pinnacles, as Cold as God in His Wrath.

The surface.

Sharp, cutting, barren.

Reflecting clear, crisp, cutting Sun.

Unprotected

Naked.

A virgin forest of silver light, rocks, and Dust.

With deep, depressed, ragged craters,
Like broken pie crust.

Small, silvery dust
Covers the surface
Like a wafer-thin sheet
Of silvery silk.

Eons and eons of Silver bombardment—
And virginity.

Rocks reduced to silvery
Dust.

More rocks.

More silvery, silken dust
And debris.

Then it seemed as if more silver came.
But—

This was different silver.
There were two of them, dressed
In silver, landing in a silver Rock.

Walking, running, playing in the Silver ocean.

No more silver virginity.

They were the only silver—
To leave.

And no silver had ever done that.

Congratulations!

GRADUATES OF PLEASANTVILLE HIGH SCHOOL!

You deserve to be commended on your achievements thus far in education. You should feel proud of this distinction because the community public high school is of American origin.

A French journalist recently tried to arouse Europeans by showing how American leadership grew out of superiority in and application of knowledge. He attributed this to a long-term product of American education.

As you leave your alma mater, you are entering a world of modern technology which demands competence. It is a world of rapid technological change not only in the body of knowledge, but also in the expectations of society.

Hitch your wagon to a star! We hope that you — whether graduate or underclassman — will pursue the love of learning to the limits of your capability. We have a special interest in your education because we also are a resident of Pleasantville.

Dear Mr. Lund -

"Who are you?" - I don't know, but one thing is for sure; you are someone. Your English class was unique and fulfilling, and I had the chance to speak out and say what I thought when I wanted, I never did get up to your place, but I will. Even if I never come back,

I'll be there. I'm just under the treetops in the summer, and on a rock looking up at night. I walk

in every lonely

place, whistling

to the stars. I am less than a breath of wind,

but without me

the world is less than nothing

and never existed.

"Limitless are leaves

stiff or drooping in the fields, and ants

in the brown wells

beneath them, And mossy scabs of the worn fence, heaped

stones, elder, mullein

and poke-weed."

When you need someone, I am in the air around you,

and I embrace you.

Andy

"I—I hardly know, Sir, just at present—at least I know who I was when I got up this morning, but I think I must have changed several times since then."

Mr. Lund
Andy Beat me to the spot. It's a good question - who are you, who am I, Everytime I found possible answers this year, new angles presented themselves and my answers seemed inadequate and false. I don't know why we never quite hit it off together - I think I'm a little too proud sometimes - I think your criticism for instance, your comments the afternoon John and I came up to your house - but I always give them thought afterwards and almost always come up agreeing with you. I really loved English and it certainly touched on all my emotions and sources of intellect. I admire you an awful lot for your intelligence and sensitivity
I guess I still can't believe you're as giving and unselfish as you seem to be - Are you? Yes, I'm really getting myself confused - I'll go think some more and report to you at another time. Well, thanks for the most exceptional class I've ever had and for being one of the most exceptional and unforgettable people
I'll ever meet. Keep striving for it?!!
Sally King

Mr Lund,

what can I say? There has been much to learn and less and less time left, I can't even think of a poem to write, though I want to. If I write and publish the book that I plan on America, I'll send it to you. Maybe then I can say what I feel. That's been one of my wishes for a long time.

Kenn.
